

Leadership and Management Programmes for Crisis Leaders

Whether you're an aspiring team leader or an established manager, our choice of programmes in leadership and management training will enhance your performance and offer a clear route to career progression.

We offer programmes for any level of experience

Innovative Learning

Our training utilises a variety of learning techniques designed to make learning interactive, effective and interesting. Simulation exercises are used throughout training to provide realistic situations to test learning.

Facilitation

Our courses are delivered using qualified and experienced professionals who are also trained learning practitioners. This ensures that learners receive a high quality blended learning experience.

view360global

Our proprietary class-leading view360global experiential learning environment immerses students into realistic crisis management simulations providing a safe space to put theory into practice.

Certification & Assessment

Assessment tasks will be built into the modules removing the need for additional work outside of the course in order to reach the standards required for certification purposes.

Partnership with the Institute of Leadership

Learners will receive complementary membership to The Institute's studying membership. Membership offers access to a range of resources to enhance skills, build confidence and elevate the learning journey.

Internationally Recognised Accreditation

The ILM is the United Kingdom's leading provider of leadership, coaching and management qualifications and training. The organisation is part of the City & Guilds Group business and operates globally.
